ings have already been destroyed.

Kopert Phillips, aged sixty, was in the mu seum building when the fire broke out there. The flames spread so rapidly that he was upable to get out and was burned to death.

The firemen are unable to cope with the terrible flames, and there is every indication that the whole summer resort will be wined out for a square mile around.

Fire companies continue to arrive on trains of the Long Island, Rockaway Beach and Woodbaven Rairoad, but owing to the scarcity of water the firemen are powerless to check the progress of the flames. Families who reside at the Beach during A chimney of the Ashland House, Fourth the Water are moving their effects to places avenue and Twenty-lourth street, took are of safety. The property rescued from the stames is being carted away and placed on
